Mohannad Mofawaz is a Ph.D. candidate at Lilly Family School of Philanthropy focusing on financial sustainability and foundations. Mohannad decided to dedicate his privilege to creating sustainable financial systems that advance the most vulnerable populations. While completing his B.S. in Industrial Systems Engineering in his home country of Saudi Arabia, he mulled over the ways that he could best contribute to social equity. He then made a career change and earned his M.A. in philanthropic studies. He served as the COO and Strategy Manager at Al-Fozan Academy at King Fahd University of Petroleum and Mineral, focusing on improving nonprofit leaders across Saudi Arabia and GCC. He serves as a board member in different organizations in Saudi Arabia focusing on youth work.

Finance (NACIF) is to foster the sharing of global knowledge. It is an international forum for Islamic finance scholars and practitioners to discuss and collaborate on the various innovative practices that are being used in the Islamic finance industry. Ultimately, the goal of NACIF is to facilitate sustainable finance practices that benefit society at all levels.
